

STRENGTH. STABILITY. SERVICE. Today & Beyond...

No one can deny that the past year has been rough. While the NCUA continues to work through its corporate stabilization plan and corporate restructuring initiative, it is easy to understand why some credit unions are questioning the role of corporates in the credit union system. With that said, VolCorp announces the launch of its "Strength. Stability. Service. Today & Beyond" educational campaign.

“Lighthouses represent strength, safety, guidance, salvation, a light in the darkness, and the welcoming home of a weary traveler.”

This campaign will feature the graphical use of a lighthouse because lighthouses symbolize things that are not only important to us, but things that give us comfort. Specifically, lighthouses represent strength, safety, guidance, salvation, a light in the darkness, and the welcoming home of a weary traveler. Over the next several months, members will receive information to help them understand why VolCorp has stayed strong, what makes us financially stable, and the value added services VolCorp consistently provides to our members. VolCorp will also educate credit unions on how to evaluate a corporate's financials so that you are better prepared to assess the true strength and stability of your corporate credit union. Information will be provided on the home page of VolCorp's website, in VolVoice articles, as well as through periodic e-Alerts and educational webinars.

To kickoff the educational campaign, please refer to the article titled, "It's a Balancing Act..." found on page 3 of this issue. The article focuses on VolCorp's conservative investment philosophy. Specifically, it explains some of the reasons why VolCorp has been able to avoid the investment pitfalls so many others currently face and remain strong. "Strength. Stability. Service. Today & Beyond" will also be the theme for this year's Annual Meeting scheduled for 1:00 p.m. CST on August 19th at the Music City Sheraton, 777 McGavock Pike in Nashville. VolCorp is proud of the strength, stability, and level of service it has maintained through the current economic storm. More importantly, we have been blessed through the years with extremely loyal members, and the educational campaign is our way of providing the critical information you need to celebrate your decision to be a VolCorp member.

Stay tuned as we light the way over the next couple of months...
